What Was Left of Haileybury After Forest Fire

This is all that remains of Haileybury, county seat of Temiskaming County, Ont., following the disastrous forest fire which killed between 40 and 60 and drove 6000 from their homes. This picture shows what was Haileybury's principal residential district.

Local Garages Prepare To Adjust Auto Lights

Arrangements have been made by several local garages to adjust automobile headlights to conform to the recent acts, passed by the state legislature, relating to their power, length and breadth of beam. Among those listed are: the Imperial Garage, 2303 Lincoln way E., the Mishawaka Garage, and the local Hinkle Ford agency. A nominal charge of fifty cents will be made for all adjustments, which when completed, will be accompanied by a certificate that will save the owner of the car considerable trouble while on the road.

Several men who had their lights adjusted at the Fire station, Tuesday evening, were said to have inquired at the local police station as to where they could have their lights readjusted, as they failed to give satisfaction in their present condition.

BUILDING PERMITS.

O. M. Vorhees, 915 Homewood st., porch, $500.
John Kolegar, E. Ninth st., garage, $100.

TEMPLE.

The Temple theater offers for today, Friday and Saturday the much heralded "Grandma's Boy." Grandma's Boy lives in Blossom Bond, one of those slow towns where the Tuesday morning Express arrives Wednesday afternoon. If Monday's train gets out of the way, Harold Lloyd is "Grandma's Boy," and his dear old lady 79 years old, and Mildred Davis is the Boys sweetheart. All the humorous, thrilling and amazing troubles that "Grandma's Boy" encounters in five reels were conducted by Hal Roach, Jean Halvey and Sam Taylor who conspired this, Lloyd's funniest and most ambitious attempt at comedies. While it is plain that there is a serious vein throughout the story of "Grandma's Boy," it is nevertheless a pure and simple comedy chock full of the famous brand of Lloydian laughter and also rapid fire thrills which come fast and furious. "Grandma's Boy" had had more publicity and more general comment than any other picture of its kind ever filmed, and Temple patrons will readily agree that the picture is worth all and more than any one can say, after they have seen it.
